THIRTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME
LITURGY OF THE WORD

READING I — WIS 1:13-15; 2:23-24

God did not make death, nor does he rejoice in the destruction of the living. For he fashioned all things that they might have being; and the creatures of the world are wholesome, and there is not a destructive drug among them nor any domain of the netherworld on earth, for justice is undying. For God formed man to be imperishable; the image of his own nature he made him. But by the envy of the devil, death entered the world, and they who belong to his company experience it.

PSALM No. 30: I Will Praise
You, Lord

READING II — 2 COR 8:7, 9, 13-15

Brothers and sisters:

As you excel in every respect, in faith, discourse, knowledge, all earnestness, and in the love we have for you, may you excel in this gracious act also.

For you know the gracious act of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, for your sake he became poor, so that by his poverty you might become rich. Not that others should have relief while you are burdened, but that as a matter of equality your abundance at the present time should supply their needs, so that their abundance may also supply your needs, that there may be equality. As it is written: Whoever had much did not have more, and whoever had little did not have less.

GOSPEL — MK 5:21-24, 35B-43

When Jesus had crossed again in the boat to the other side, a large crowd gathered around him, and he stayed close to the sea. One of the synagogue officials, named Jairus, came forward. Seeing him he fell at his feet and pleaded earnestly with him, saying, "My daughter is at the point of death. Please, come lay your hands on her that she may get well and live." He went off with him, and a large crowd followed him and pressed upon him.

While he was still speaking, people from the synagogue official's house arrived and said, "Your daughter has died; why trouble the teacher any longer?" Disregarding the message that was reported, Jesus said to the synagogue official, "Do not be afraid; just have faith." He did not allow anyone to accompany him inside except Peter, James, and John, the brother of James. When they arrived at the house of the synagogue official, he caught sight of a commotion, people weeping and wailing loudly. So he went in and said to them, "Why this commotion and weeping? The child is not dead but asleep." And they ridiculed him. Then he put them all out. He took along the child's father and mother and those who were with him and entered the room where the child was. He took the child by the hand and said to her, "Talitha koum," which means, "Little girl, I say to you, arise!" The girl, a child of twelve, arose immediately and walked around. At that they were utterly astounded. He gave strict orders that no one should know this and said that she should be given something to eat.

Stick together. Love each other, and together: Look to Jesus in Prayer.

FAITH IS THE EYE THAT SEES HIM (GOD), THE HAND THAT CLINGS TO HIM, THE RECEIVING POWER THAT APPROPRIATES HIM.

Frederick James Woodbridge

Here we are, just a few days past the first day of summer. This time of year, with its periods of sun and relaxation, makes it easy to see that God rejoices in life. Fields are fast approaching harvest time. Gardens that adorn our homes and our parish grounds are filled with beautiful flowers and produce. As we drive about, we see scenes of life repeated everywhere. We also see abundant life in the family gatherings, picnics and reunions that are a part of this time of year. All of these remind us that God is a God of life. God loves us and the world that he created and saw to be good.

We also know that our world is not quite the place that God intended it to be. Because of a human choice made long ago, our world is broken, less-than-perfect, a place where sadness, sickness and death occur all too frequently.

This balance between joy and sorrow, between sickness and health, between life and death, is something we all know. Think for a moment about the prayers of intercession – the prayers of the faithful – that are proclaimed each time we gather for Eucharist. There are prayers for situations in our world that desperately need God's help and our own; there are prayers for those who are sick and for their caregivers; there are prayers for our beloved dead, known and unknown. What happens with those prayers as we offer them each time we gather for Eucharist? How do we offer them to God? How does God reaffirm himself as the God of life, not death?

It is no mistake that we make those prayers as we prepare to offer our gifts of bread and wine, simple things, made of wheat that has been ground down and grapes that have been crushed – bread that sustains and wine that can be a drink of great joy. So it is with our prayers, as we offer them and unite them with the gifts of bread and wine that are placed upon our altar. We join together things that sustain us and things that make us feel ground down; we join together that which makes us feel crushed with that which brings us joy. We place it all on the altar and we ask God to make it holy – to hallow our gifts of bread and wine and the gifts of our lives into the body of Christ.

It is no mistake that words such as “holy” and “hallow” come from the same root word as “health,” “healing” and “wholeness.” Isn't that what we seek when we gather at this table for Eucharist? Here we have a glimpse of heaven, something that reassures us that God is a God of life. Here, God takes everything we bring to the table, hallows it, makes it holy and makes us the body of Christ. God hallows each of us, making us holy, sharing healing love with each of us.

THE HEART OF THE MATTER: TIME FOR REFLECTION AND SPIRITUAL GROWTH

1. What is a childlike faith?
2. How is it acquired and deepened?
3. What keeps me from being more childlike in my faith?

*"...as a matter of equality your abundance at the present time should supply their want, so that their abundance may supply your want, that there may be equality."
— 2 Corinthians 8:14*

We are responsible not only for our own lives, but for the lives of those around us. It is important that we not only grow, nurture and share our gifts; but that we also teach our children and encourage others to do the same. This is the communal aspect of our Catholic faith. We are the "Body of Christ". We are called to be dependent on each other and not live in isolation.

*"... como una cuestión de igualdad, tu abundancia en el tiempo presente debe suplir sus necesidades, para que su abundancia pueda suplir tu necesidad, para que haya igualdad".
— 2 Corintios 8:14*

Somos responsables no solo de nuestras vidas, sino también de las vidas de quienes nos rodean. Es importante que no solo crezcamos, nos nutramos y compartamos nuestros dones; sino que también enseñamos a nuestros hijos y alentamos a otros a hacer lo mismo. Este es el aspecto comunitario de nuestra fe Católica. Somos el "Cuerpo de Cristo". Estamos llamados a depender el uno del otro y no vivir aislados.

The Power of a Good Habit

If you've ever tried to start a new habit, you know it isn't always easy. But with a little effort and the right plan, it's possible to develop good habits. Here are five specific steps you can take today to successfully implement your new habit.

1. TAKE THE LONG VIEW

As human beings, we thrive on change, growth, and development. But these things take time. It can seem impossible to make a positive choice that day, let alone to begin a habit that you want to last for a lifetime. Yet when you take the long view and look at what you truly want for your future, the sacrifices you make today seem less painful.

Big changes don't happen unless small changes happen first.

Ask yourself, "What is my deeper desire?" You may desire to eat three cookies right now, but you have deeper desires to be healthier, to live longer, and not to have a stomach ache later. Write down how the future you will benefit from keeping your new habit. If the habit is to eat more vegetables, list all the reasons why you decided to do that: to live longer, to have more energy to take care of my kids, to feel better. Keep your list on the fridge or in a place you can see. When you are frustrated with keeping your habit, remind yourself of your deeper desires.

2. SET GOALS

Write out your goals surrounding your new habit and post them in a place you can see. Setting goals is especially effective when you can work with a specific timeline. For instance, one of my goals is to pay off my student loans early. This means I have to form good habits around money—budgeting, saving, sacrificing certain luxuries. I set a payoff date I know I can achieve and wrote it down. I also keep a chart of my progress toward that date. It helps to see a visual representation of my progress, and it shows me where I can improve.

3. MAKE SMALL CHANGES

If you try to take on too much at once, you're setting yourself up for disappointment. Big changes don't happen unless small changes happen first. If you want to transform some area of your life, start by doing something small. Come up with one small thing you know you can accomplish just for tomorrow, or this week, or this month. If you want to eat healthier, start by cutting just one thing out of your diet—like soda—and replacing it with something healthy—like water. It might be difficult at first, but eventually you will find it easier to reach for the water. Once that sacrifice is so easy you don't even think about it anymore, try the same tactic with a different food or drink. Replace candy with fruit, or potato chips with granola. Slowly, these small changes will start to add up and make a big difference.

4. BE INTENTIONAL

You don't fall into good habits; you fall into bad ones. Forming positive habits requires intentionality. You have to make the intentional choice. And you have to continue to make choices that will help you develop good habits over time. Plan ahead, especially when you are just starting to build a habit. Set aside a specific time each day when you will work on creating this habit. If you want to work out four times a week, sit down with your calendar on Sunday and figure out which four days that week are best for you. And don't be afraid to be flexible. Start by picking one habit you want to develop. Write out your plan to make it happen. Every day, make choices that help you execute that plan.

5. FIND ACCOUNTABILITY

Accountability is key to keeping your habits. If you can't find someone to hold you accountable in person, look for an online community. I mentioned that I'm in the process of paying off my student loans early. Although not many of my friends are in the same boat, there's an entire community of people on social media trying to do the same thing I am. Staying in the loop online helps me to stay on track with budgeting and saving.

Creating new habits isn't always easy—but with a little elbow grease, you'll begin to develop good habits that will last a lifetime.

RESPECT LIFE NEWS -- SPIRITUAL ADOPTION

"Before I formed you in the womb
I knew you... before you were born
I consecrated you"

Jeremiah 1:4-10

We ask that you spiritually adopt an unborn child. This is done by praying for one particular, but unknown child; that he or she is allowed the gift of life.

Respect Life Spiritually Adopted Baby Week 15

Please pray that our baby, who is not yet born, will receive the gift of Life. As we follow our unborn baby to birth, this is what's going on in the womb during week 15.

"This is another week of miracles. I am able to hear my mother's voice for the first time! All of the fluid that surrounds me helps to carry the sound of her voice, her heartbeat and even her stomach, to me. I can hear some things outside the womb - like Daddy's voice, too! My brain is not yet mature enough to interpret it all, but it sure is interesting. I am growing some hair and eyebrows and even growing tiny little hairs called 'lanugo' all over my body that help me to maintain my body temperature. Don't worry; by the time I am born, most of that hair will have disappeared! Please keep praying for me".

Welcome Fr. Paweł to Transfiguration

My name is Fr. Paweł Adamus, but some people call me Fr. Paul or Padre Pablo. I am a priest of Archdioceses of Chicago for three years. I was born in September, 1984 in Warsaw, Poland. At age 21, I entered the Seminary in Siedlce, Poland where after 4 years I applied to Abramowicz Seminary which is one-year transitional program for Polish seminarians who want to be ordained for our archdiocese. After that, I started my 4 year journey to priesthood in Mundelein Seminary, and graduated in 2015.

My previous assignment was St. Ferdinand Church in Chicago which is well known as a busy place. Now I'm waiting for new experience in a more country parish like ours. I'm really happy about it and I'm looking forward to meeting you all.

GOD BLESS

Fr. Paweł Adamus

MINISTERS OF CARE

Caring for one another...

Our church is a family and we consider our community a part of that family. We strive to care for and encourage those both within and beyond our walls. Our care ministry brings the Eucharist to our people to hospital, nursing homes and family homes. By taking some time to extend a helping hand we can show God's love and we assure our interest in their welfare and spiritual life.

Have a desire to help care for your neighbor?

Contact Kathy Baggio at
(847) 849-7456 to see how you can help out.
